

FIELD GUIDE · 2026

10 Workflows You Can Automate This Month

A practical list of high-return automations you can switch on now — and the kind of tools that run each one.

Hamad Alismail

Co-Founder & CEO, AI 247

CONTENTS

What's inside

01	Start with the time-sinks	03
02	Then scale the back office	04
03	How to choose what to automate first	05

INTRODUCTION

Automation works best when it starts small and specific. These ten workflows are the ones almost every service business can run — repetitive, rules-based, and happening all day. Pick the one wasting the most time this week, automate it, then use the time you win back to build the next.

CHAPTER 01

Start with the time-sinks

These five are what every business should automate first — they're repetitive, rules-based, and happen throughout the day.

1 Lead capture & routing

Every enquiry (form, message, WhatsApp) flows to one place, tagged, time-stamped, and assigned to the right person automatically.

2 Instant first response

An automatic welcome reply goes out within minutes so no lead sits unanswered — the biggest cause of lost deals.

3 Follow-up sequences

Automatic, personalised follow-ups over days or weeks so no lead goes cold and no one has to remember.

4 Appointment scheduling

Bookings confirm, remind, and reschedule themselves. No back-and-forth, far fewer no-shows.

5 Quote & proposal generation

Pull client and pricing data into a polished quote in seconds instead of rebuilding the document each time.

CHAPTER 02

Then scale the back office

1 Invoice & payment reminders

Invoices send themselves and gently chase late payers, improving cash flow without awkward calls.

2 Data entry between tools

Stop copying information app to app. Let it sync automatically and accurately.

3 AI inbox triage

Incoming messages get summarised, categorised, and routed — your team opens a pre-sorted inbox.

4 Review & reputation requests

Happy customers get an automatic nudge to leave a review at the perfect moment.

5 Weekly reporting

Your key numbers are gathered and delivered to your inbox on a schedule, with no spreadsheets.

TIP

You don't need all ten at once. Each automation you ship frees up time to build the next.

CHAPTER 03

How to choose what to automate first

The best first automation isn't the flashiest — it's the one removing the most friction from money. Score each candidate on how often it happens, how long it takes, and how close it sits to revenue.

PICK YOUR FIRST ONE

- ☐ It happens every day or several times a day.
- ☐ It follows clear, repeatable steps.
- ☐ It's close to revenue, or it's quietly costing you deals.
- ☐ You can measure the before and after with a number.

TIP

Want us to do it for you? Book a call and we'll pick the highest-impact workflow for your business and show you exactly what it takes.

YOUR MOVE

Want us to build these for you?

Book a free call. We'll pick your highest-impact workflow and show you exactly what it takes to ship it.

Book a free call

WhatsApp +966 53 600 0087 · ai247.sa

More free guides at ai247.sa/resources